OBJECTIVE

Informatics graduate with a strong foundation in computing concepts, problem-solving skills and having an eye for a detail. Over the last six months, I have dedicated myself to strengthening my skills in data fields, particularly through structured learning on Data Camp and Coursera learning platforms. My motivation for pursuing a career in Data Analytics stems from my passion for data-driven decision-making and problem-solving. I am driven by the challenge of transforming raw data into valuable insights that can guide business strategies and enhance operational efficiency.
